Lauren Bowersox
Human Resource Manager
Alturas Analytics, Inc.
Moscow, ID 83843

Dear Lauren Bowersox:

I am writing in regard to the Software Validation Internship position at Alturas Analytics. I am currently a Computer Science undergraduate student at the University of Idaho. This position sounds like an exciting opportunity to begin a career in my field of study. I am excited about this opportunity to contribute to a company known for precision and innovation in the biotech industry.

Although my prior professional experience has been mostly in high-paced culinary environments, I have independently pursued software development projects that reflect my technical skill set. I have built an Android application which used audio analysis and automated alert systems as well as developed an eCommerce site using C# and ASP.NET for a local business. These projects taught me how to manage real-world problems and apply the skills I've acquired throughout my academic career in Computer Science.

I appreciate this opportunity to showcase how my motivation, strong work ethic, creativity and technical background can work to support your team's goals at Alturas Analytics. Thank you for considering my application and the chance to demonstrate how I can become an integral asset to your internship program.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Dustin W Goodpaster". The script is fluid and cursive, with the first letters of each word being capitalized and larger than the others.
